1.2 The client

Natural or legal person who has signed a cost estimate and the general terms and conditions of sale of the provider for any service subscribed with the latter.

1.3 The services

Refers to all services and benefits available to the client and limited by these general terms and conditions of sale (the "Contract").

1.4 Information system

Refers to the various computer elements in the client's possession as well as the services available to him to circulate work information.

1.5 Data Center

Infrastructure consisting of a network of computers and storage spaces. Used to organize, process, store and stock large amounts of data and install applications and services needed to perform tasks.

1.6 Outsourced CIO

Led by the provider and responsible for the maintenance strategy and IT systems required to support the client's objectives.

2 Application of the general conditions

The provider provides a service as described in the quotation, unless otherwise stated, as a best-efforts obligation, and not a performance obligation.

The provider may advise the client to complete its architecture to optimize its functioning during the service, this being not deemed an extension of the signed quotation.

These general terms and conditions of sale are deemed entered into and accepted on the date of acceptance of the quotation by both parties.

Any quotation implies full acceptance of these general terms and conditions and their appendices, which prevail over all other terms and conditions, apart from those expressly accepted by the client, as well as from the possible signing of an attached service contract.

These terms and conditions have been made available to the client, in accordance with Article L. 441-6 of the French Commercial Code.

3 Duration and modification

When the service is a "One-Time Service" as described in the appendix, the contract becomes effective from the signature of the quotation and will end as soon as the service specified in the same quotation is provided and completed.

Unless otherwise agreed, any "Long Term Contract" as described in the appendix is valid for a period of one year. In accordance with the Article 1212 of the French Civil Code, it must be performed until its end. At the end of this period, it may be terminated by registered letter with acknowledgement of receipt or by e-mail with a three-month notice.

If services have started prior to the signing of the quotation, they shall also be subject to these provisions.

4 Commitments of the client

4.1 Information

The client undertakes to provide the service provider in due time with all documents, information and explanations which may be necessary for the latter to carry out, in a timely manner and under the best possible conditions, his tasks and missions under this contract, in particular in consulting the information booklet, within the time required.

The client undertakes to ask the provider before any intervention of a third party on the information system. The provider may then initiate a preventive backup procedure and warn the client of possible risks.

4.2 Technical details

The client declares to have previously subscribed to the necessary subscriptions and services, with third parties or other providers, in order to have access to the Internet network, to have a suitable space for the implementation of the service, to have a computer capable of connecting to the server, to have acquired the necessary software licences and to have basic technical knowledge.

The client further acknowledges that he has been informed that the operating system of the hardware supplied may not bear certain softwares.

It is the client's responsibility to ensure, prior to signing this contract, that the softwares he wishes to install, on the date of signing this contract and/or that he plans to install within the following year, are compatible with this operating system and that he has the necessary licenses to use the softwares to be installed.

The client undertakes to inform the provider and to obtain his approval prior to the installation of any new software. The sums due under this contract will nevertheless remain due in all cases.

The client undertakes to comply with the legal provisions in force, in particular those relating to the use of the hardware, intellectual property rights, good morals, the protection of minors, respect for persons, data encryption, games and competitions, public order and the universal principles of Internet use.

The client undertakes to regularly make backups of his data.

4.3 Intervention of the provider

In general, the client commits to facilitate the conditions of intervention of the provider or his subcontractors and not to do or let do anything which may hinder them or make them more difficult or expensive.

The client is informed that any request for intervention of the service provider must systematically and mandatorily be the subject of a prior written request to an e-mail address ending with @abelionni.com.

4.4 Employees of the provider

The client undertakes in particular, whenever the services requested make it necessary, to allow the service provider's personnel or its subcontractors free access to his premises and installations and to make available to the said personnel all means likely to facilitate their intervention, it being understood that the said personnel must, for their part, which the service provider guarantees, comply with any internal regulations or other provisions in force at the client's premises, in particular with respect to security and confidentiality.

4.5 Designated contact person

The client shall designate a contact person to the provider, who shall be authorized to report anomalies and shall be responsible for implementing any instructions given by the provider. Given the importance of the stability of this contact person, any change must be notified to the provider in writing beforehand. This contact person shall have been informed in advance of the terms and conditions of this contract and shall have the technical skills required to ensure that the anomalies reported correspond to the requests specified in the quotation.

4.6 Non-solicitation of employees

The client shall not hire, or make work in any way, any employees of the provider, present or future.

This provision shall apply regardless of the position of the employee in question, even if the request is made by the said employee. Moreover, this provision will be valid during the entire performance of the service and for the following twelve months.

4.7 Penalty

In case of breach of the previous provision, i.e. non-solicitation of employees, the penalty is set at a minimum of six months' gross salary of the employee(s) in question. This amount being a minimum, the parties are free to negotiate a higher penalty.

In addition, the breach will result in a firm termination, without delay and without notice of this contract. The sums invoiced or billable by the provider remain due.

5 Commitments of the provider

5.1 Security and confidentiality of the information

The provider is committed to respecting the good practices of security and confidentiality due to its profession.

No client data will be placed on the provider's personal equipment without explicit agreement and this only in emergency situations.

If the provider is given an identifier allowing remote administration or access, he undertakes to keep it protected with strong encryption while remaining compatible with local law.

The provider undertakes to warn the client about security issues that may affect the client or the provider. He also undertakes to inform the client of any legal issues he is aware of and which could be detrimental to the client. However, this last clause does not replace the services of a lawyer specialized in this field.

The provider undertakes, throughout the term of this contract and at any time after its termination, to be subject to and comply with all reasonable written policies and procedures of the client given to him with sufficient time to review and inform his staff, including with respect to the protection of confidential information and intellectual property and potential conflicts of interest. The provider acknowledges that the client may amend these policies and procedures from time to time provided that the scope of the amendment remains reasonable and that it does not affect the substance of this contract and that the provider shall at all times remain bound by the most recent version so long as it has been given to him.

Confidential information

In connection with this contract, each party (the "Disclosing Party") may disclose to the other party or give the other party (the "Receiving Party") access to Confidential Information. The expert services cover design studies, complex implementations, and advanced troubleshooting on an online or on-site information system.

By advanced troubleshooting we mean troubleshooting that requires complex log analysis, network frame capture, direct database intervention and reverse engineering.

The training prices are exclusively for training centers conducting inter-company sessions.

A preferential rate is available for training centers that request it and have a frequent order history over the past years in order to facilitate sessions with 3 people or less. The number of these sessions is limited in the year.

For all other trainings, the daily rate is defined by the technical level of the training.

In all cases, drafting and sharing of class material is not included.

The question package is present for questions in writing only, through an e-mail or our support portal.

Under no circumstances can written questions lead to a complementary telephone conversation.
